

IF YOU MAKE WINE FROM OREGON GRAPES, YOU CAN TAKE THE PLEDGE!

Thank you for considering taking the Oregon Wine Longevity Project pledge. Individuals the world over all rely heavily upon charitable organizations for the myriad of public benefits & resources they provide, & it is the intention of the Project that lovers of wine, regardless of where they hail from, will likewise over time, come to rely upon the Project's open-source database.

Although we hope you are already aware, the Oregon Wine Longevity Project exists:

- To identify & determine how each variable may impact the longevity of Oregon wine;
- To develop an open-sourced database of all such variables defined through quantitative & qualitative lenses over the next fifty years; & in sharing such a database;
 - Educate the public about the potential of aged wines & help consumers determine when the wines they have purchased will be at their prime;
 - Give winemakers across the world the information necessary to allow them to alter their winemaking style to ensure their wines last as long as they desire.

The Project's ability to even begin creating such a database is virtually impossible without the partnership & support of winery partners like yourself.

The following page will explain precisely what taking the pledge entails, as well as allow you to specify the form & extent of your pledge. At its simplest, taking the pledge would mean that you designate at least one wine release (current or forthcoming) as a Longevity Wine & donate a single case to our 501(c)3 organization to enable the Project to test your wine along with countless others quinquennially over the next fifty years.

That you are even contemplating taking the pledge & supporting the Project is not something I take lightly & I look forward to working alongside you to determine the true longevity of Oregon wines... And have a great time doing it!

Cheers,

Jason Raymond Werner, Chief Longevity Officer, Oregon Wine Longevity Project

WE COMMIT TO TAKING THE OREGON WINE LONGEVITY PROJECT PLEDGE...

We pledge to support the Project's efforts to develop an open-sourced database of all those variables that impact the longevity of Oregon wines - defined through quantitative & qualitative lenses - over the next fifty years. We pledge to partner with the Project through the designation of the following wine releases as Longevity Wines for testing purposes. Our pledge permits us to request a quantitative & qualitative analysis of any of our Longevity Wines twice on demand. Our pledge gives the Project permission to share our name & logo when presenting winery partners. Our pledge indicates whether we're willing to support the Project's event series - Sip & Learns, Annual Longevity Celebrations, & Quinquennial Longevity Celebrations - by serving as venues for future events. Any willingness to offer our beautiful winery properties as potential venue sites is not a direct commitment to any specific date & the decision to actually serve as a venue will remain at our discretion & availability. We commit to taking the Oregon Wine Longevity Project Pledge.
